Welcome to Ibus

The images are NOT set up to be displayed on pages - they are set up in cmyk for print reproduction and therefore cannot be placed on a web page.

To be used and viewed they MUST instead be downloaded to a hard disk. Even then you will probably not be able to view them unless you have photoshop or Xpress.

If, when you click on the file name, a new browser page opens and ultimately a broken icon appears then you have not been downloading the file to your hard disk.

To download a file directly to your hard disk rather than to display it on a page (on a PC) you click the right mouse button on the link. In netscape you will see the option 'Save link as' which will prompt you with a dialog box asking you to name the file to be downloaded and to choose where to save it. In Explorer you will see 'Save target as' when you right click the mouse button on the link.
